OFFICE OF PUBLICATION—Corner Austin and Vale Sts., Jefferson, Texas.

Entered at the Post-Office at Jefferson, Texas, as second-class mail matter.

Copies of the JEFFERSON IMPECRITE, IN WRAP form ready for mailing, can always be had at the office by single copies or the dozen.

This paper is mailed regularly to its subscribers until a definite order to discontinue is received and all arrears are paid in full.

Pittsburg is having a "carnival of crime." The millionaires have passed the contagion along to the hoboes and thugs.

The Standard Oil Company might do well to use some of its oil on the troubled waters through which it is passing at present.

Representative Longworth may be said to have achieved real fame at last. A cravat, an overcoat and a hat have been named for him.

Edison claims that he has an auto that will run fifteen years. He does not take into account the mounted policemen, ditches and telegraph poles, however.

It is said that the new railway to Siberia through the tunnel under the Behring sea will not be completed for fifty years. It is barely possible that the canal will be ready by that time for the Russians who come over by the tunnel to return by Panama.

Cotton went up to 11c Tuesday and the streets were crowded with wagons bringing in cotton that had been held for that price. We only wish every bale sold here this season brought 11c, then there would have been much more money in the hands of the cotton raisers.

Marion county last week redeemed $1,500 worth of its new bonds. The county has built two iron bridges this year, paid off its indebtedness, and that without raising the rate of taxation, and on a small decrease in valuation over last year. This speaks well for the management of the county.

Pure, Healthful, Reliable

SENATOR C. A. CULBERSON.

Many Democratic papers and many of the leaders of the party are suggesting this distinguished Texas as among the most available of Southern statesmen for the Democratic nomination in 1908.

Those who know him know his eminent fitness for the highest position in the gift of the nation.

The only charge which can be brought against him is that he is Southern. He was too young to be in the Confederate army, therefore he can't be classed as among the Confederate brigadier-generals.

His record as Governor of the great State of Texas, demonstrated his executive ability, his regard for law, as exemplified in convening the Legislature to pass a law to prevent a prizefight, demonstrates his high moral character. In fact his entire official life since he was first elected County Attorney of this, Marion county, to the present moment, is without a blot. He is the equal of President Roosevelt without his impulsiveness. His conclusions are correct—his knowledge of the law enables him to construe legal questions for himself, thus making him independent. No one for a moment will question his thorough knowledge of the constitution. "In the Senate he represents the highest order of senatorial integrity and honesty." He has passed through that body, coming out without the odor of coal oil, or smear of car wheel grease on his garments. His official life requires no personal explanation. In all this land, there is not a man that will come near protecting the best interest of the people, North, South, East and West, than the distinguished Texas Senator. He is Democratic in principle and practice—of the Jefferson type. He recognizes the constitution to be the highest law in the land. He will not permit the slightest violation of it. Should he be nominated and elected, the country will have one of the cleanest administrations in its entire history. He does not belong to that type of latter day politicians who sacrifice every thing to their own political advancement. Justice to all, impartiality to none, is the motto to which he has always adhered with unmovable tenacity. While he is of Southern birth, yet if elected to the Presidency he will be beyond question an American in its broadest and most conservative sense. If he has ever proven recreant to a trust, or unfaithful as a lawyer to a client, or betrayed a friend, such a fact has never yet reached the public. He early in life placed himself on that highest of ground, absolute honesty in all things, where he will ever be found. In all its entire history the entire country has never had a man more fitted for the Presidential chair than Senator Charles A. Culbertson.

Fiction appropriately flavored with the Christmas spirit, is the predominating feature of the Woman's Home Companion for December. Mary E. Wilkins contributes in "The Gift of Love," a typically Wilkins picture of New England as we have learned to see it through her delightfully entertaining stories. Temple Bailey also writes with a holiday flavor in "The Christmas Storm."

Other fiction in this number is contributed by Juliette Wilbur Tomkins, Jean Webster, Alice Brown, Julia Truitt Bishop and Grace S. Richmond. An important feature of the magazine is a hitherto unpublished poem by the late Eugene Field entitled "The Old Blue Bear and the Rabbit." Its writing is described by Frederick S. Field, a son of "Gene" Field, who was the "rabbit" of his distinguished father's poem. Among the special articles are "Christmas Thoughts" by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, "Woman's Share in the New Child Labor Program" by Samuel McCune Lindsey and "Easy-to-Make Christmas Presents" by Grace Margaret Gould.

There are several clever poems by Wallace Irvin, Edmund Vance Cooke, Clinton Scollard, and Samuel Minturn Peck, and a Christmas play in verse by Katharine Pyle, Howard Pyle's sister. The departments form an unusually strong and attractive feature in this number.

Death of Mrs. E. J. Slaughter.

Died, Sunday, November 25, 1896, at 5:25 p. m., Mrs. E. J. Slaughter, after a few days' illness from pneumonia.

The deceased was born in Madison county, Alabama, Jan. 20, 1826, and came to Texas in 1849, settling near Jefferson, and has lived in the city since the death of her husband, and for a number of years made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Whitfield.

Mrs. Slaughter was a noble, christian lady and loved by every one. She was 81 years of age, and while frail of body she was as strong and bright in mind as a much younger person, and it was a great shock to her children and friends when death came on Sunday eve. There are four children left to mourn the loss of a devoted and loving mother. Mrs. J. B. Whitfield and Mrs. Eva Slaughter of this city, Mrs. Brande of Dallas, and W. W. Slaughter of Mt. Pleasant. The absent children did not reach her until early Monday morning.

The funeral took place from residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Whitfield at 4 p. m. Monday, services held by Rev. J. W. Long. Many friends were present, with interment at Oakwood cemetery. Deepest sympathy is tendered the bereaved children.

W. W. Slaughter and wife returned to Mt. Pleasant Monday night, and Mrs. Brande to Dallas Tuesday.

Grippe or Influenza, whichever you like to call it, is one of the most weakening diseases known.

Scott's Emulsion, which is Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in easily digested form, is the greatest strength-builder known to medical science.

It is so easily digested that it sinks into the system, making new blood and new fat, and strengthening nerves and muscles.

Use Scott's Emulsion after Influenza.

Invaluable for Coughs and Colds.

The saw mill is still shut down on account of the mandill not coming as ordered.

Sunday was a glorious day for this time of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers were visiting at Kellyville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones drove over to Harrison Sunday. The weather and scenery was quite a change for Mrs. Jones, as she has just arrived from the snow and ice covered plains of Kansas.

The team boss has been very busy this week moving the corral and boarding cars on to the front.

The saw mill crew has been having a gay time this week fishing. Mr. Wade seems to be the champion for numbers, but Mr. Bynum has caught the largest so far.

Dr. Carroll is kept quite busy this day between the sick and explaining how he killed the duck.

A colored man returned the heading that Mrs. Jones had lost, the other day.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Howell are the proud parents of a baby girl that arrived at their home Tuesday. Mrs. Howell and baby are doing well, but Captain Howell is using a cane.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were at Driskill's saw mill Wednesday.

Dr. Carroll was chaperone for a fishing party Wednesday. We will hear some nice fish stories how the big ones flopped off the hook just as they were ready to land them.

Mr. Dodd is busy these days fixing his chicken pens and garden to be ready for an early garden.

School is progressing nicely. The children like the teacher and are learning very fast.

Holland's for Christmas.

A full stocking, running over with things to delight the little folks, is the very appropriate design for the cover page of the Christmas number of Holland's Magazine. And the inside of the magazine is running over with good things, too, but they are intended for the enjoyment of the grown ups as well as the children.

Every issue of Holland's has been an improvement over the preceding number, and the December magazine is no exception. It is rich in illustrations, well-told stories, Christmas suggestions and special articles.

Walter B. Whitman continues his vigorous fight on food and food adulterations—his article for December being one of the strongest which he has so far written for Holland's on the subject.

About Digestion.

It is not the quantity of food taken but the amount digested and assimilated that gives strength and vitality to the system. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and enable them to perform their functions. The result is a relish for your food, increased strength and weight, greater endurance and a clear head. Sample free. For sale by all druggists.

Appropriation Not Recommended.

UNITED STATES SENATE
Washington, D. C., Nov. 24, 1906.
Col. B. F. Sherrell, Mayor of Jefferson, Jefferson, Texas.

Dear Sir: You perhaps noticed in the Dallas News ten days or two weeks ago a statement to the effect that General Mackenzie, Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, had in his annual report, recommended an appropriation for Cypress bayou. As soon as this publication came to my notice I inquired personally of General Mackenzie and he informed me that it was a mistake, he having made no such recommendation. This I communicated to Representative Sheppard, both by wire and letter.

Since then I made a special call at the War Department with reference to this subject. It is stated there that inasmuch as two unfavorable reports had been made with reference to the bayou, the department could not recommend an appropriation, and after going through the reports again the statement was reiterated that no appropriation for the bayou had been asked. It occurred to me, and I pressed the matter upon the department, that as Captain Wooten did not have the data before him showing the commerce at Jefferson and tributary to it when he made his adverse report, that possibly a different conclusion would be reached by him if the matter were resubmitted by the department. It was answered that the law prohibited such course and provided, in effect, that after the reports had been made and submitted to Congress it would not be lawful to make supplementary reports. It looks, therefore, like nothing can be done now except (1) to endeavor to have an appropriation made by Congress notwithstanding the adverse report, or (2) to ask for another survey and report. I want you and the people of Jefferson to know that this matter is constantly on my mind and I have regretted nothing more deeply since I have been in the Senate than the failure so far to do anything for the improvement of this stream. When Sheppard reaches Washington I will talk to him as the immediate Representative of these two alternatives, and endeavor to reach a conclusion as to what is best to be done. Very truly yours,

C. A. CULBERSON.

Geo. F. Moseley

Jefferson, Texas.

Dear Sir: Some people get disappointed in painting; it doesn't come out as they thought it would.

C. B. Edwards, of Edwards & Broughton, printers, Raleigh, N. C., painted his house three years ago; he had used 30 gallons paste paint before and bought 30 gallons Devco. Had 16 left.

Paste paint is extra-thick—with white-lead.

Major W. W. Carroll, Monticello, Florida, says: My painter said it would take 35 gallons to paint my house; it took 20 gallons Devco. His house is the best paint job in town; and he says Devco is the whitest white of all white paints.

Jones & Rodgers bought 5 gallons Devco to prime Mr. Pratt's house at Merck, Texas. It painted two coats.

The reason for nobly guesing little-enough Devco is: they learned in a bad school: other paints.

Yours truly

DOING THEIR DUTY.

Scores of Jefferson Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow.

Urinary trouble, diabetes, Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. R. B. Johnson, janitor at the Court house, Longview, Tex., says: "Before I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills I was a constant sufferer from kidney trouble. It started first with a pain in the loins, gradually extending to the stomach and from there into the small of my back. At times the kidney secretions were too free, while again they were too scanty, and I was constantly troubled. I continued the treatment until permanently cured and since then my wife has tried them with the same result."

Plenty more proof like this from
